IOWA PUBLIC RADIO

Power & The Presidency

Herbert Hoover Presidential Library & Museum
West Branch, Iowa | Tuesday, April 25 7:00 - 8:30 p.m.
With NPR Host Sarah McCammon

Iowa Public Radio will partner with NPR and member stations around the country for A Nation Engaged, fostering conversation on the topic of Power & the Presidency with the question: “How powerful should any American president be?” As the Trump presidency approaches its 100th day, four NPR Member stations will pose this question to live audiences with panel discussions and town-hall style events in four presidential libraries around the country.

IPR’s Ben Kieffer will moderate the discussion in Iowa at 7:00 p.m. on April 25th at the Herbert Hoover Presidential Library and Museum in West Branch. NPR Reporter and former IPR Morning Edition host Sarah McCammon, who covered the Trump campaign during the election, will join the conversation. The event is free and open to the public. RSVP here to be part of the live audience.

Tune in Thursday, April 27th at 10:00 a.m. as Tom Ashbrook of WBUR will play excerpts from the local conversations and pose these issues to the national radio audience, as On Point brings conversations from Iowa, Atlanta, Kansas City and Santa Barbara together as part of a larger, national conversation.

Thanks to the Herbert Hoover Presidential Library and Museum and the Hoover Presidential Foundation for their support of this event. The Herbert Hoover Presidential Library and Museum will be open for event attendees to visit free of charge from 5:00 – 7:00 p.m., prior to the Nation Engaged discussion.

Participating member stations: Iowa Public Radio and the Herbert Hoover Presidential Library and Museum; WABE and the Jimmy Carter Presidential Library & Museum; KCUR and the Harry S Truman Library and Museum; and KCLU and the Ronald Reagan Presidential Foundation and Institute.
